"HIBBARD CAN'T WIN" SAYS JOHN K. BERRY

EX-SENATOR JOHN K. BERRY OF DORCHESTER.

THE MAN WHO CAN DEFEAT FITZGERALD

Senator Lodge has failed in his efforts to force the Good Government Association to endorse his candidate for Mayor.

The voters of Boston agree with the Good Government Association. Hibbard is an unfit candidate.

The decision of the association means that HIBBARD CAN NOT BE ELECTED. Prominent Republicans already are flocking to the standard of John A. Coulthurst as the only man who can defeat Fitzgerald.

In another column we print the statement of ex-Senator John K. Berry, a Republican leader, who was the recent candidate of the Republican organization against Walter A. Webster for the nomination as District Attorney. Mr. Berry is for Coulthurst because he realizes that Hibbard can not be elected, and he considers it the duty of all men, regardless of party, to unite in the defeat of the man who has made Boston city politics a synonym for graft and double dealing.

Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, an astute and liberal clergyman, who supported Patrick A. Collins for Mayor against Hart and who helped turn the tide for Moran in the recent campaign, warned the Republican party, even before the nomination had been made, that HIBBARD COULD NOT BE ELECTED.

These are opinions of REPUBLICANS.

On the other hand, Democratic leaders by the score have come, openly or secretly, into the Coulthurst camp. The former Democratic Representative from Roslindale, who led in the fight for cheaper gas and who helped obtain the five-cent fare to the farther parts of the city, is the man of the hour.

Coulthurst is clean, democratic and able. His worst enemies can not make a charge against his personal character or his ability. His record at the State House, which has been attacked by lies and misrepresentation, shines by comparison with the servile obedience to the public service monopolies that is shown in the records of his two opponents.

Coulthurst stands for honest, straightforward, decent government, without the taint of machine politics.

The tide has turned his way. All that is needed now is concerted action by the voters who are disgusted with the cheap political trickster in City Hall.

Volunteers are wanted. We suggest that every man who can spare time go as soon as possible to the headquarters of the Independence League in the Old South Building and see if he can not do something to aid in the election of Mr. Coulthurst.

Meanwhile, workingmen, clerks and others who can not get off during the day, can send their names and addresses to the secretary of the League and obtain literature and campaign buttons for circulation among their fellow employees.

The fight is on. Let us all talk and WORK together from now until December 10.

EAST INDIAN STRIKE SETTLED; TRAINS RUN

CALCUTTA, Nov. 22.—The strike on the East Indian Railway is ended. Some of the European leaders were dismissed. Traffic, which had been at a standstill for a week, is resumed, and European travelers, who were held up at famine stricken points, are proceeding to their destinations.

BIG STEAM SHOVEL DELAYS B. & A. TRAINS

All trains of the Boston & Albany Railroad are from a half hour to three hours late to-day, because of the upsetting on the tracks of the steam shovel, which was working a quarter of a mile east of Natick. Traffic on three of the four tracks was blocked.

Witness for Defence Says Mrs. Bradley Was INSANE OVER BROWN

Arthur Barnes of Utah Continues Corroborative Testimony at Trial To-day.

Woman Slayer Seems More Cheerful as Court Proceedings Are Resumed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 22.—When Mrs. Anna M. Bradley, on trial for the murder of former Senator Arthur Brown of Utah, entered court to-day, she appeared more cheerful than for several days.

When Arthur Barnes, assistant Attorney-General of Utah, resumed the stand to continue his corroborative testimony in her favor, she looked at him with friendly, almost confident, mien.

Mr. Barnes recounted an interview in which he told Brown that it was his duty to marry Mrs. Bradley. From the impression he acquired then, he told Mrs. Bradley that he did not believe Brown ever intended to marry her.

Mrs. Bradley hung her head at his mention of the children for whom she was fighting.

"I never thought Mrs. Bradley an insane woman," said Barnes, "except on one subject—Arthur Brown. On this, I believe she had no control over herself."

Depressed and Heartbroken."

"Mrs. Bradley came to me at my office early in 1906 and seemed depressed, a heartbroken woman. She said that Senator Brown, though he had promised many times to marry her, was trying to evade the fulfilment of those promises. She asked me to go to see him and ask him to do his duty. I told her I would not do so unless Mr. Brown sent for me to ask my advice. In a few days he sent for me and asked what I thought he should do. 'Mrs. Bradley is determined that I shall marry her. She is persecuting me. What do you think I should do?' he asked.

"I answered: 'Mr. Brown, if what Mrs. Bradley says is true, there is but one thing, that as a man of honor you can do. That is, marry her.' He looked surprised and a little disappointed. 'So that is what you think?' It is. Then he ushered me out of the room. I went back to my office and told her that I was confirmed that Arthur Brown did not intend to marry her. I told her that he was deceiving her and in my opinion, and that he had not at any time intended to marry her. Nothing I could say would convince her that he did not care for her as she cared for him and that he would not marry her.

"Possessed by Insane Love."

"At other times when I saw her she seemed to me a broken woman, depressed and discouraged; yet at times her face would brighten and she would quote passages of poetry. That seemed to me wholly irrelevant, and she would launch hysterically and without reason, concluded that she was insane about Arthur Brown, and had an insane love for him.

"I Must Live for My Boys."

"Have my boys," is Mrs. Bradley's plea to the world and to the jury.

"They have so wanted my children for the past two days," she said, "because they are slightly ill, and the weather is so inclement that they have been unable to visit me. My darling boys!

"If I ever have the opportunity I will devote the remainder of my life to doing good and trying to influence other women in danger of falling into the pit into which I have fallen, to turn aside from their paths of wrong.

"My mother and my children will be my care, and I will work hard to brighten for them the hours of life while I live.

"But I must live. I will live. I have a right to live.

"Even life without Arthur Brown means life after darkness, for my children. I fear, will grow up to know him with disdain.

"How often, as I lie on my cot in my dreary cell, with the light of the moon revealing their father's picture on the wall, do I think of the time and see in my mind's eye their look of sorrow and horror when they come to realize all of this and to know the truth of their birth, over which they had no control.

"I extend my arms to Heaven. My punishment is more than I can bear.

"It is so good to-day to have my good, kind, honest friends upon the stand instead of having to be there myself. I thank God that the ordeal is over.

"When those noble men from my dear old Salt Lake, where they are among the most prominent and the most honored citizens, testified in favor of a poor stricken woman I was happy that, for I had found that I was wrong in my estimate of men. They were there, and they understood and knew of the great, undying love I had and have for Arthur Brown."

Her Punishment In Boys' Future

How often as I lie on my cot in my dreary cell, with the light of the moon revealing their father's picture on the wall, do I think of the time and see in my mind's eye their look of sorrow and horror when they come to realize all of this and to know the truth of their birth, over which they had no control.

I extend my arms to Heaven. My punishment is more than I can bear.—Mrs. Annie M. Bradley.

KENNY PAPERS TAKEN AS CLUB OVER MAYOR

IF SOUTH BOSTON MAN LOSES FOR SCHOOL BOARD HE RUNS AGAINST FITZGERALD.

Hon. William S. McNary to-day made good his threat that if School Committeeman Thomas J. Kenny was not renominated at the Democratic City Convention at Faneuil Hall to-night, Kenny will become an independent Democratic candidate for Mayor.

A set of mayoralty nomination papers were secured from the Board of Election Commissioners to-day for Kenny to employ in his office, and are now being circulated in every ward in Boston for signatures.

Under the law an independent candidate must have 1,000 signatures and the papers must be filed by 5 o'clock Monday night.

It was the final and tardy action of Mayor Fitzgerald last night in announcing that he favored the nomination of Mrs. Julia Duff for School Committee, that started former Congressman McNary and his cohorts out on the war path bright and early to-day.

The McNary men are confident that they will give the Mayor reason to regret his turning Kenny down, for when the latter ran for school committeeman he received over 60,000 votes in Boston, the largest vote ever cast in this city for any election office, and they feel that they can swing many of those votes for Kenny for Mayor.

Even with all of these preparations for war on the Mayor, the Kenny men are not discouraged, and claim even yet that he will be renominated to-night.

STATE CLOSES CASE AGAINST PETSOLD

Special to the Boston American.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 22.—The State closed its case at 11:20 a. m. to-day in the Superior Criminal Court in the trial of Ernest Petsold of Burrillville, charged with the murder of seven-year-old Helen May Brown, on August 14 last. While the jury was out of the room Attorney Westcott counsel for Petsold, made a brief preliminary argument to the court, holding that the State had failed to make out a case to show that any violence had been used toward the child or that Petsold contemplated any malice toward her.

Mrs. William J. Brown, mother of the dead child and formerly housekeeper for Petsold, was in the court room to-day, but did not resume the stand. She testified in detail yesterday about the circumstances before and after her child's death. She showed plainly to-day the strain under which she was laboring. Before court opened to-day she said to a reporter:

Mother Under Strain.

"I wish this was all over. It is an awful trial to me. I hope it will finish soon, so I may go home and forget it."

The closing witnesses for the State to-day were Constable Andrew Higgins of Gloucester, near Burrillville; Inspector of Milk Scott of the State Board of Health, and Dr. Jay Perkins, medical examiner for Providence county, who testified as an expert.

Constable Higgins, the man to whom Petsold gave himself up, described Petsold's coming to his home and saying:

"I hear they are looking for me."

"I asked Petsold," said Higgins, "if he ever struck the child. He said 'No.' I tried various times to get him to admit that he had hit her, but I could not draw him out."

Tells of Stained Handkeerchiefs.

Inspector Scott submitted reports from the State Analytical Laboratory showing that stained handkerchiefs found in the Petsold house after the child's death showed traces of a combination that might have come from Paris Green. This was in support of the contention that Petsold had contemplated suicide.

Dr. Jay Perkins was asked a hypothetical question, based on the report of the hemorrhage of blood to the Brown girl's brain, as revealed by the autopsy. He testified such a hemorrhage would cause death and might have been induced by a blow or a fall.

Ex-Senator and Life-Long Republican Declares Candidacy of Postmaster is Futile and Will Prove a Boomerang for Those Who Promoted It—Sees Victory for Coulthurst.

In a statement made to-day to the BOSTON AMERICAN ex-Senator John K. Berry of Dorchester, a life-long Republican, tells for the first time his reasons for supporting John A. Coulthurst, the Independence League nominee for Mayor, against Postmaster Hibbard.

MR. BERRY NOT ONLY DECLARES THAT IT IS ABSOLUTELY IMPOSSIBLE TO ELECT HIBBARD, BUT HE ACCUSES THE POSTMASTER'S "ALLEGED MANAGERS" OF NOMINATING HIM WITH THE INTENTION OF LEADING HIM TO DEFEAT, IN ORDER THAT HIS CANDIDACY MAY BE A SOURCE OF PROFIT TO "OTHER FITZGERALD REPUBLICANS."

"It will prove a boomerang to those who have induced Mr. Hibbard to run," adds Mr. Berry, "if they think that the already overworked and underpaid letter carriers can be made a part of a vote-getting machine to match that employed by the Fitzgeralds, the Donovans, the Linehans and other objects of investigation by the Finance Commission, who are driving their minions under the party lash!

OFFERS SUPPORT TO COULTHURST.

"I am more of a personal friend of Mr. Hibbard than he thinks, and I am sorry to see his alleged managers running him up against it."

The former Senator states that no one urged him to support the candidacy of Mr. Coulthurst, and that the League can claim no surprised when he informed him that he would back him in his race for the mayoralty.

"I am convinced that Mr. Coulthurst has an excellent chance to win," said Mr. Berry to an AMERICAN reporter to-day. "He is a clean candidate, and though he has been opposed to me politically, I have long witnessed his uprightness in public life.

"When he was in the Legislature he co-operated most heartily with the different improvement associations in favor of the Dorchester bill, which cut off something like $15,000,000 of capitalization by the Consolidated Gas Company. The gas trust wanted to capitalize on their 'empties,' as we call them, all their old, unused plants which since the introduction of pipe lines have been of no use and no value. This would have meant a direct steal of millions from the people.

HIBBARD CANNOT WIN.

"I base my opinion that Hibbard can not be elected chiefly on the recent vote cast for District Attorney, wherein the vote of the city of Boston was the principal factor. I consider that the voters repudiated the nominees of both the Republican and Democratic parties. That vote indicated to me an utter contempt for a man because he was championed by Fitzgerald, and no confidence in another man, even though nominated by the Republicans who controlled the county convention.

"As is well known, the combined vote of those two candidates was less than half that cast. I am not aware of any change in public sentiment indicating that Mr. Hibbard, selected by those who controlled that county convention, will command any greater confidence and support by the general public than did Mr. Webster.

"I am not biased in this opinion because I lost the nomination for district attorney, I was never very eager for it and was well satisfied when it was given to another. I say this to avert a recount newspaper critique in the effect that I take my position to seek revenge.

"But it is well for Republicans to know, especially those in Dorchester and those who may consider my opinion of any value, that in the final vote in the Republican County Convention there were only three delegates from Ward 16, and not more than six out of twenty from Ward 24, who stood with the twenty-nine from Ward 20, who were faithful with me as the Dorchester candidate. The defection in Ward 24 was led and controlled by Harrison H. Atwood, who may be wanted as one of those who have now selected Mr. Hibbard as a candidate, and I feel that he can either be run to a defeat, as was his candidate in the county convention, or that his candidacy may help OTHER FITZGERALD REPUBLICANS.

MACHINE MADE CANDIDATE.

"As I understand the selection of Mr. Hibbard, it was made by such men as Ex-Senator Charles H. Innes of Ward 19, Mr. Atwood of Ward 24, Jesse M. Gove of East Boston, and other Republican leaders in city politics who generally defer to the wishes of Ex-Mayor Curtis and have for years contributed to the defeat of candidates nominated and controlled by them for the mayoralty.

"The defeat of Thomas N. Hart in 1901, and that of George N. Swallow in 1903, are notable instances. They cannot claim credit for the good vote obtained by Frothingham in 1905, because that was openly attributed to Martin Lomasney. The latter is said to be with Fitzgerald this year, so I do not see that they can promise Mr. Hibbard any votes from that quarter.

"Considering the normal Democratic plurality for Mayor in 1901 of 10,000, and in 1903 of 28,000, and the Republican vote for Frothingham in 1905, it will be necessary to turn at least 11,000 Democratic votes from Fitzgerald to Hibbard in order for him to win. I hear of no large defection among former Fitzgerald leaders and certainly know of none that will contribute any such number of votes to the support of Mr. Hibbard.

"On the other hand, I have heard several intelligent Democrats say that they do not wish to vote for Fitzgerald again, but want a man stronger than Hibbard. And I meet many Republicans who express a lack of confidence in Mr. Hibbard's ability to command sufficient votes to defeat Fitzgerald.

THINK HIBBARD WEAK.

"These are the principal reasons which led me to surprise Mr. Coulthurst with the information that I favored him. I may add that it will prove a boomerang to those who have induced Mr. Hibbard to run, if they think that the already overworked and underpaid letter carriers can be made a part of a vote getting machine to match that employed by the Fitzgeralds, the Donovans, the Linehans and other objects of investigation by the Finance Commission, who are driving their minions under the party lash.

"I am more of a personal friend of Mr. Hibbard than he thinks, and I am sorry to see his alleged managers running him up against it."

CHARLES W. PEIRCE, BRIGHTON LEADER, IS FOR COULTHURST

Charles W. Peirce, president of the Brighton Citizens' Improvement Association, a large real estate dealer and a life-long Republican, to-day announced that he will support John A. Coulthurst, the Independence League nominee for Mayor.

Mr. Peirce is well known about City Hall, and has for years been a leader in Brighton politics.

"I know John A. Coulthurst personally," he said to-day to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter. "I know him to be an honest, upright young man, and his candidacy should be strongly supported. I shall vote for him, and shall urge all my friends to do so.

"He is a good man for the office of Mayor, in fact, the best one we could get. Others have been tried and found wanting; and now the conservative citizens demand a change, which is absolutely necessary.

"I cannot forget the gas fight in the Legislature and other important matters in which he was so active in behalf of the people's rights.

"There is a great deal of dissatisfaction with Fitzgerald in Brighton, and I cannot help but admire Mr. Coulthurst's pluck and energy, and I hope he will win. And from what I have heard, he is sure to do so.

"Mr. Hibbard is a good postmaster, but he is not the man for Mayor that Boston needs."

CONSUELO IN BOSTON TO SEE SICK BROTHER

Duchess of Marlborough Visits Harold Vanderbilt at Harvard Infirmary.

WILL SEE FOOTBALL GAME

Consuelo, Duchess of Marlborough, who is in Boston at the Hotel Lenox with O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. Belmont, her mother, two maids and a valet and about fifty pieces of baggage, today visits her brother, Harold S. Vanderbilt, who is suffering from typhoid fever at the Harvard Infirmary.

The beautiful American Duchess arrived here with her mother and Mr. Belmont from New York yesterday afternoon about 3:40 o'clock. She was clad in simple gray traveling gown with fur boa, and very charming did she appear as she alighted and tripped into the hotel.

She, with her friends, was astir betimes today and breakfast was served to the little party in their private parlors. Then Mrs. Belmont and her distinguished daughter prepared to make their visit over to Harvard Infirmary to see the brother and student, who is surely chafing over the fact that he is bedridden and will not be able to see the great Harvard-Yale football game to-morrow afternoon in the Stadium.

The Duchess, immediately after her arrival here yesterday afternoon, purchased a beautiful bunch of orchids, which she hastened to take over to the infirmary. She made the journey over to Cambridge in a street car.

So far, the plans for the day of the distinguished little party, which is stopping at the Lenox is being kept a careful secret. It is their desire that their stay in Boston and Cambridge be as quiet and unostentatious as possible.

How long they are to remain here is not definitely known, but they will likely be here for some little time as plans have been made to see the great contest on the gridiron to-morrow afternoon if the weather is at all fit.

While Harold Vanderbilt's condition is not alarming, the Duchess desires to be as much as possible with her brother during her stay in Boston, for she realizes that she will not be in this country much longer now, as she has promised her two pretty sons to be home with them in old England long before Christmas.

MAURETANIA, IN FOG, GETS TO SANDY HOOK

Big Cunarder Beats Sister Ship Lusitania's Record for 24-Hour Run.

FOUGHT HEAVY GALES

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The biggest ship in the world, the Cunard turbiner Mauretania, arrived off Sandy Hook on her maiden voyage in the fog today.

She is not yet a four-day racer, as is her "little sister," the Lusitania, but she broke one of the records held by the latter by steaming 624 knots in one day. The best the Lusitania has done was 618. The Mauretania's time from Daunt's Rock to Sandy Hook was five days and about five hours.

Moves Cautiously in Fog.

The Mauretania encountered much fog early in the day, and her movements were cautious. Captain Pritchard, her commander, is well enough satisfied with her first showing. She encountered heavy seas and blankets of fogs or he would have done better. The 624 knot run from noon on Wednesday up to noon yesterday, which was at the rate of 25.15 knots an hour, encourages him to believe that when she gets in her prime she will be able to show the Lusitania her heels. There is a large passenger list on the turbiner and $12,000,000 in gold, which is more of the yellow metal than was ever shipped at once on the way before. The Lusitania recently brought over $10,000,000 in bullion. The daily runs of the Mauretania were: 571 knots to Monday noon; 461 to noon Tuesday, which was "storm day"; along her track; 563 up to noon of Wednesday; 624 to noon yesterday and 461 to her arrival at the dock.

Captain Pritchard declares when his stokers get accustomed to firing the huge turbiner they will give so much more steam that a storm will affect the Mauretania very slightly. That she can do better than the Lusitania, her owners do not doubt. There was joy and excitement on the ship when the captain announced that a world's record for a day's run had been smashed.

Ovation Given to Builder.

W. K. White, an American passenger, contributed $1,000 to finance a banquet to G. B. Hunter, one of the firm that built the boat on the Tyne. Others chipped in and everybody joined in an ovation to Hunter in the dining saloon.

S. W. Barney, son of Charles T. Barney, late president of the Knickerbocker Trust Company was a passenger on the turbiner, but his name was not on the passenger list.

FITZGERALD'S NAMESAKE HAS FILED PAPERS

South Boston Roofer Starts Campaign for Election as Mayor.

CHAMPIONS LABOR'S CAUSE

John F. Fitzgerald of No. 778 East Fifth street, South Boston, declares he will go to the polls as a candidate for Mayor of Boston, and he has filed candidacy papers with the Board of Election Commissioners to make good. As his name is identical with that of Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, the friends of the latter are somewhat worried over the new Fitzgerald in the field. The South Boston Fitzgerald is a roofer, and at City Hall it is feared that Roofer Fitz will get many a vote intended for Mayor Fitz. But Roofer Fitz is sure he will get plenty of votes intended for himself alone.

Roofer Fitz is a candidate, he says, because Mayor Fitzgerald violated a pledge made to members of Roofers' Union No. 17. He says:

"Mayor Fitzgerald is throwing down Boston printers by getting his posters printed in New York.

"Why doesn't Mayor Fitzgerald give an attentive ear to the voice of organized labor on the bath house proposition on Ninth street?

"Why did he give Columbia Road ledge to a man who hired cheap labor to run it?

"If I am elected I will drive from City Hall the political loafers who are drawing pay for passing out election circulars.

"I shall appoint to office practical laboring men instead of liquor dealers.

"I shall do away with the spotter system in the Sanitary Department.

"My slogan is 'Three dollars a day for city laborers.'"

NO CHANGE IN FALL RIVER WAGE SCALE

FALL RIVER, Nov. 22.—At a conference tonight of the manufacturers' committee and representatives of the Textile Council the central organization of cotton operatives, the semi-annual adjustment of the wage schedule under the sliding scale agreement will be made. It is practically assured that there will be no change in wages.

FINANCE BOARD TO PLACE EVIDENCE BEFORE MORAN

LINEHAN AND WOODS CASES TO BE PRESENTED TO DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

Testimony before the Boston Finance Commission connecting Alderman William M. Woods of Brighton and Councilman-Alderman-State Senator Frank J. Linehan of South Boston with city contracts will be turned over to District Attorney John B. Moran just as soon as the commission's overworked stenographers can put it into shape—probably early next week.

The Finance Commission met in executive session at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Having docketed the coal inquiry and the Linehan construction companies, the commission, it is said, finds itself confronted by an embarrassment of riches.

Plenty of Work Ahead.

Any one of a half dozen matters now waiting for inquiry, it was said to-day on good authority, will furnish sufficient material for further public meetings. Nothing is sight, however, promises so many hearings as were given to Alderman Woods, coal and the Linehan industries.

The first report of the commission to the Mayor and the City Council was placed in the hands of Mayor Fitzgerald early last evening. It is a document of 10,000 words, almost enough to fill a page and a half of the AMERICAN. Here are some of its findings:

Findings Reported.

That by unintelligent methods the city loses $100,000 yearly on its purchases of coal.

That more contracts of $2,000 and over have been awarded since February 1, 1906, without advertisement, than with advertisement.

That the contract is not always awarded to the lowest bidder.

That where bids are solicited privately, the best known and most competent firms are not invited, in many cases, but only a small number of favored persons.

That the giving of authority to dispense with public competition has become a "part of the routine" of the Mayor's office.

That reputable contractors assume that "influence" is necessary.

That the result of these methods has been a complete demoralization and a heavy financial loss.

Finds Money a Waste.

After connecting Alderman William H. Woods of Brighton with the Brighton Coal Company and the Eastern City Goods Company and their profitable business dealings with the city, the Commission expresses the opinion that Alderman Frank J. Linehan was financially interested in an $8,000 "William J. Hallon" job on Boston Common, "and in others, if not in all, of the thirty odd contracts given by the city to William J. Hallon while he, Linehan, was a member of the Common Council, the Board of Aldermen or the State Senate."

The commission finds that he lieer ist. and $51,000 was built by the Atlas Concrete Company (or, as the commission believes, Frank J. Linehan) cost $16,000 more than "if it had been awarded to the lowest responsible bidder after a fair advertised public competition."

About Those Conferences.

The commission refers to the invitations that City Engineer Jackson received over the telephone at City Hall to "come over to Young's Hotel and see the Mayor," and to the two conferences at a private room in the hotel among Jackson, Linehan and Penal Institutions Commissioner Martin about the Deer Island job, the Mayor dropping in on each occasion.

"It is clear to the commission," says the report, "that these proceedings were interpreted by the commissioner and the city engineer as a direction to give the contract to Mr. Linehan on the best terms obtainable."

HE WAITS AT CHURCH; SHE WEDS ANOTHER

While Fred Eastman of Worcester was waiting last Sunday for the arrival of Miss Josie D. Le Mountain, whom he expected to wed on that day, Miss Le Mountain was being wooed and won by C. F. Ladd, a sweetheart of other days. Monday Ladd and Miss Le Mountain journeyed to the First Baptist Church at Lynn and were married by Rev. James Draper. At the church they found David Hamilton and Ethel Lawrence of Lawrence, who were there on a similar errand. Each couple stood up for the other. Mr. and Mrs. Ladd will live at No. 286 Essex street, Lynn.

RECORD CROWD HERE TO SEE GREAT GAME

HOTELS OVERFLOWING WITH GUESTS WHO COME TO HARVARD-YALE BATTLE.

The largest crowd that ever came to Boston for football game is now filling the hotels of the city. Every hotel has turned down from 150 to 500 belated applications for accommodations to-day. Cots are being installed in every spare space and hundreds of visitors are being driven to the lodging houses.

"I have been in the hotel business thirty-four years and I have never seen anything like it," said Herbert Barnes, proprietor and manager of the Hotel Brunswick in Boylston street, to-day. "We have turned away 200 people already and the other hotels are in similar conditions.

Some of the larger hotels where more applicants could not be accommodated, although all the employes are busy setting up cots, are the Somerset, Westminster, Touraine, Brunswick, Lenox, Victoria, Vendome, Thorndyke and Nottingham.

The Hotel Westminster is the headquarters of the Yale team and students. One hundred and fifty Yale men will be there in charge of Everard Thompson. After the game the Yale team will have dinner in a private dining room and there will be a banquet attended by 150 Yale students. Showing how crowded this hotel is, one three-room suite is accommodating eight guests.

At the Touraine many guests had to give up their rooms at 1 o'clock to-day because of advance bookings.

The Lenox stopped making advance bookings three weeks ago, and since then has had to turn down 300 applications.

Herbert C. Leeds and two companions will join the Duchess of Marlborough Belmont party at the Lenox to-day. The party will go to the game in a body.

Among the better known people at the Brunswick are Professor F. Newcomb and wife and W. W. Storrs of Lockport, N. Y.; Dr. Charles Carr and wife of Newport, M. A. Bennett and wife of Pittsburg, Frederick Catherine and Milford Lyon of Auburn, N. Y.

At the Lenox will be A. H. Smith, vice-president and general manager of the New York Central and Boston & Albany road; K. Jones and wife and Miss Helen Jones of Scranton, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jones and Miss Helen Devereux of Utica, N. Y.; B. A. Welch of Philadelphia; Arthur H. Osborne and David N. Barnes of New Haven.

At the Touraine guests included Mrs. Harold Brown and Miss Hazel Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sarger, A. F. Hunt, Jr., M. J. Lewis and Joseph Strouch, David R. Callis and H. Ottenberg, New York; Charles R. Crane, Chicago; N. W. Kowgill, New Haven; Henry W. Joan and Carl Sprague, Buffalo; Russell H. Cornwell and daughter, Philadelphia.

Where was an absence of betting propositions about the hotels, the visitors seeming to take it for granted that Yale would win by a big score. At the Lenox several wagers that Yale would double-score Harvard were not taken.

STOCKS UP ON NEW GOLD ENGAGEMENTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Declines marked the opening in Wall street to-day, but the announcement of further gold imports, bringing the total for this movement up to $78,380,810, was followed by a sharp rally in all stocks. It has been believed that no more gold could be imported at present. The improvement extended from 1 to 2 points. Brooklyn Rapid Transit was one of the stocks that continued heavy.

It was reported that Secretary Cortelyou had rejected a conditional bid by New York banks for $25,000,000 of the new 3 per cent treasury notes, but had asked that a new bid be made without conditions. Cotton and wheat were unchanged. It was reported on the market that the Union Pacific was selling its Great Northern and Northern Pacific stocks and buying what is known as part-paid certificates in equal volume. This report cannot be true except to a small extent because the Hill-Morgan people did that very thing nine months ago and practically cleaned up the market for part-paid shares.

GREAT WATCH CONCERN LAYS OFF 300 MEN

WALTHAM, Nov. 22.—The American Waltham Watch Company is cutting down expenses by laying off employes and curtailing extensions.

It is estimated that over 300 employes have already been laid off, and that at least seventy-five are working on two weeks' notice. On Monday the employes in the machine, carpenter and a section of the adjusting department will work on an eight-hour schedule instead of a day, as at present.

We are beginning to feel the effects of dull times as well as other manufacturers," stated E. A. Sedgwick, a representative of the board, "and as there is a falling off in the demand for watches we are obliged to save expenses by laying off employes in some of the departments.

The Waltham Watch Company has over 4,000 employes, representing skilled workers of the highest type, and is the largest manufacturer of high-grade watches in the world.

AS OTHERS THINK

Everyone in Boston Has a Right to His Own Opinion.

While everyone has a right to his own opinion, yet it is wise to always consider what others think and profit by their experience.

Nothing makes life so miserable, or interferes so widely with the usefulness of the average American, as indigestion, and it is well for us to give fair consideration to what others think about this remarkable affliction.

Many people, from their own experience, are positive that Mi-o-na stomach tablets are an absolute cure for indigestion and the many disagreeable symptoms that follow this disease, such as distress after eating, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, flatulence, nervousness and debility.

The way Mi-o-na is sold, on a guarantee to refund the money unless it cures, shows plainly the value of this remedy. There will be no charge whatever for Mi-o-na unless you are satisfied that it has relieved you of indigestion.

Mi-o-na wakens up the stomach muscles and strengthens them so that they take care of all the food you eat in a natural, healthy way, without pain or distress after meals.

Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere for 50 cents, and we positively guarantee to refund your money should you purchase a box and be dissatisfied with results. Write for free sample, addressing Booth's Mi-o-na, Box 977, Buffalo, N. Y.

"CHICAGO BY TUESDAY," IS WESTON'S CRY

DELTA, O., Nov. 22.—"Boys, I'll be in Chicago on Tuesday before the time limit. I feel in beautiful shape now and ready for the walk of my life." This was Edward Payson Weston's farewell shortly after 5 o'clock this morning as he resumed his walk across Ohio. "I have had a hard time of it in the past two days. Temporarily I forget my digestion, but my digestion didn't forget me," he said. "Indigestible clam chowder laid me on my back for eight hours, but boys, I'm going to make up that eight hours. Just watch me. I'm forty-eight hours ahead of my schedule now and I'll retrieve my eight-hour loss before Sunday."

In a speech at Toledo Weston declared: "Ohio has more energy, ambition, hospitality and beautiful women than any other State in the Union. The girls have natural colors."

Weston has practically recovered from the attack of illness which kept him at Fremont for eight hours. When he left here this morning his appearance belied the stories which have been sent East to the effect that he is footsore, weary and about walked out. He is still the same old man who started so buoyantly from Portland, Me., to beat his record of forty years ago in walking to Chicago.

At noon to-day he was steadily plugging along over the heavy roads, but still full of courage and refusing to admit for a minute that he was becoming tired. "I'm going to show England and France and Scotland and all the Europeans that we are ahead in endurance contests and in everything," he declared.

RESERVES PAGE HOUSE DECISION

Page says that Robinson abandoned efforts to sell the property, and that the sale to W. C. Jacobs of Philadelphia was consummated through the work of R. L. Jacobs, brother of the purchaser, who received the commission.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 22.—The divorced Princess Louise, King Leopold's wayward daughter, has secured a fresh postponement of the auction sale of the jewels left to her by her mother, the late Queen Marie Henriette, until December 15. The Princess still hopes to find some way of retaining possession of the heirlooms, or at least of keeping them in the Belgian royal family.

Santa Claus

Will Arrive at Siegel's In His Big Balloon Some Time Friday Night

Saturday morning you can see Santa Claus leaning over the basket of his balloon floating high above the Siegel building and securely anchored to the roof so it cannot get away.

If you are here at 10 o'clock Saturday forenoon you can see the balloon pulled down to the roof of the Siegel building.

Santa Claus will step out of the basket and walk to the front of the building on Washington street, where he will climb down the fire escape and greet the children from the fire escape balcony, near the big clock in the center of the building on Washington street.

Here is a letter to the children of Boston which we have just received from Santa Claus:

DEAR CHILDREN:

I want you and all your little friends to meet me in front of the Siegel store on Washington street at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, November 23rd. I will arrive in my balloon some time Friday night. I cannot tell just what time, as I have decided to anchor on the roof of the Siegel building and remain in the basket of my balloon until 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

I will greet all you children from the fire escape balcony, on the front of the Siegel building, near the big clock. After you have all had a chance to see me I will climb down and get in my automobile, which will take me away to my hotel to rest until Monday, November 25th.

Beginning Monday I will be in the Siegel store every day until after Christmas, where I hope to meet all of my little friends and their papas and mammas.

SANTA CLAUS.

Wonderland Opens Monday

Wonderland, the world's greatest toy store, will open Monday morning, 8:30 sharp, November 25th, on the third floor of Henry Siegel Co.'s big store, where it was located a year ago.

WARNING!

During the past year we have had opportunities to buy out old stocks of toys carried over from the previous year and several years back. We turned down these offers because we believe parents would prefer that their children have strong, new toys, instead of old, shopworn playthings.

Our prices will be found as low or lower than any other store, because we have four Siegel stores to supply, enabling us to buy strictly new toys in vast quantities cheaper than old stocks can be purchased for, bought from retail dealers going out of business.

Absolutely not a dollar's worth of toys in our stock carried over from last Christmas. Everything bright, new and guaranteed to last longer than any other toys made, as we buy from the world's best manufacturers.

Our 1907 Wonderland will be the rarest treat ever prepared for the children. Santa Claus and all his workshops and palaces will be ready Monday, together with scores of other holiday attractions. It would be a shame if the children did not visit Wonderland.

Annual Toy Herald—100,000 copies now ready for distribution, containing two full color pages, Teddy B and Teddy G, by Seymour Eaton, and six full newspaper-size pages of toy pictures with complete descriptions and prices. This is the greatest idea ever conceived. The children can select their own toys from the Toy Herald and tell you just what they want Santa Claus to bring them.

The Toy Herald will be distributed every day, beginning Monday, in Wonderland and throughout the store, to all the children and the big folks as well, or will be sent by mail on request to any address in the world.

Annual Thanksgiving Sale Men's and Boys' Clothing

When we announced our Semi-Annual Kuppenheimer sale last May it was followed by a business such as we never expected, but we confidently believe that on Saturday and during the entire week following we will more than double any previous records ever made in the men's store on the third floor. There isn't a merchant tailor in America that can make a suit or overcoat for $40 that will fit any better or retain its shape any better than a Kuppenheimer suit or overcoat. We guarantee your suit or overcoat to fit perfectly if it is a Kuppenheimer. Kuppenheimer has made a record in Boston as well as in New York, and almost every other city in this country, that is absolutely unequalled by any other clothing manufacturer in America. More than a million men are wearing Kuppenheimer clothing year in and year out. The majority of these men have not always worn Kuppenheimer clothing, but found after their first purchase that they had never before been able to secure anything at the same price that would give them the satisfaction of a Kuppenheimer suit or overcoat. The same conditions exist in Boston. Twice as many men are wearing Kuppenheimer clothing this year as last.

Semi-Annual Kuppenheimer Sale Men's Suits and Overcoats

Men's Store Third Floor

The overcoats, famous Kuppenheimer $25 overcoats at $15.50, include blacks, oxfords and fancies in kerseys, meltons, vicunas, etc., all the newest models for Winter, Regent or Rex styles, venetian, serge or wool lined, hand felled collar, strictly hand tailored throughout. We challenge any other store to show a better coat for $25. Don't fail to get one in time for Thanksgiving. $15.50

The suits are made of the very highest grade materials, the patterns are all new and distinctive, many of the designs being absolutely exclusive, not to be found in any other clothing store or tailor shop in Boston. $2.85 FOR ANY SIZE BOYS' $5.00 SUIT WITH TWO PAIRS OF PANTS

One of the greatest boys' tailoring concerns in this country is working to its fullest capacity to supply Henry Siegel Company with enough of these suits to satisfy the demand. Never before, in the history of the country, has any boys' clothing offer made such a tremendous hit as the above. Customers who have purchased our combination suits for boys in the past declare that one suit with two pairs of pants lasts as long and looks as neat as two $5.00 suits, for the pants always wear out before the coats. This offer includes two pairs of pants, which together last as long as the coat, besides giving the boy two different style suits, as one pair of pants is the knicker and the other just straight pants.

We have double breasted suits in all sizes, 8 to 17 years, and Russian and sailor styles in all sizes from 2½ to 10 years. Each suit is guaranteed perfect fitting, and is made of a high quality of Scotch material, the best material in the world for boys' suits, as it wears like iron. As these suits are sewed particularly strong, there is no doubt about the wearing qualities. In fact, we will replace any suit that does not wear satisfactorily.

The

White Indian

A white Indian is a sick Indian. When the Indians first saw a white man they were sure he was sick. White skin—sick man was their argument. "Pale-face" is the name they gave us.

Pale faces can be cured. When blood is properly fed the face glows with health.

Scott's Emulsion

is a rich blood food. It gives new power to the bone marrow from which the red blood springs.

All Druggists; 50c. and $1.00.

NEW CLUB IN WARD 22 FOR COULTHURST

League Candidate for Mayor Makes Short Address to Members at Nolan Home.

PLANS FOR THE CAMPAIGN

Having met for the purpose of forming a John A. Coulthurst Campaign Club, his neighbors and friends of J. H. Nolan assembled the front rooms of his residence at No. 77 Sheridan street, Ward 22, last evening, that after the matter of electing officers and committees was disposed of, the meeting was turned into a rally and Mr. Coulthurst, the Independence League candidate for Mayor, was induced to visit Ge Nolan home and give a twenty-minute speech before the newly-formed organization.

Mr. J. H. Nolan was elected president of the club and John C. Morgan vice-president, and a committee of management was appointed, consisting of J. H. Nolan, Lewis H. Cohen and E. Hutchinson.

Great Debt of the City.

Mr. Coulthurst said: "There is no more fitting occasion to address a gathering of citizens who are not politicians than at a neighborhood rally, and I want to declare that the present time is ripe for municipal reform in this city and what is most wanted is an honest, clean administration of our city affairs.

"The tremendous debt of the city of Boston comes out of the pockets of every man and woman who works inside the city limits. The city owes $114,000,000 today and I have got to pay in the next twenty or thirty years if we live that long.

"In the past two years the city debt has increased $5,000,000, and what I want to know is why does Mayor Fitzgerald want going to allow $5,000,000 more to accumulate in the next two years if he is elected.

Grafters Now in Control.

"The city treasury has been turned over to political grafters. Mr. Doyle, the superintendent of streets, and Mr. Leake, superintendent of ferries, have their positions as rewards for assisting Mayor Fitzgerald in his fight against Donovan for the nomination.

"If I am elected I intend to give Boston a business administration. I intend to get a dollar's worth of work or good of every dollar that goes out of the treasury. It is not government that we want but a proper administration in this city. I am not going to offer to discharge honest city employes. The man who does a fair day's work for a fair day's pay will be safer under me than under partisanship.

Will Replace Merit System.

"Even the fire department of this city is dissatisfied. Under Commissioner Russell merit system was carried on and a man earned his promotion, but at the present political pull has taken the place of this system.

"The recommendations of the chief engineer are disregarded, and I pledge myself elected to see that the recommendations of the Chief are considered, and the merit system will be placed back where it belongs.

"I believe that I have missed no portion of the city in my campaign, and the real issue of this campaign will be for the voter to decide whether it shall be Coulthurstism or Fitzgeraldism."

PRIZE DOGS DIE IN FIRE.

RYE, N. Y., Nov. 22.—The Brookdale kennels, owned by George Greer, were burned at a loss of over $25,000. Fifty dogs, mostly prize winners, were burned to death.

Coulthurst to Expose Gross Misstatements

THE statements that have been given to the press by or on behalf of my opponents about my legislative record during the three years that I served in the House of Representatives are grossly incorrect, and made for the manifest purpose of misleading the voters of Boston.

I am having prepared a complete account of my legislative record, which I will submit to the voters of Boston in a few days. I am satisfied that a careful examination of that record will warrant the voters of Boston, irrespective of party affiliations, in giving me their support as a candidate for Mayor.

In the meantime, I ask them not to be misled by the campaign misrepresentations which have been started in the interest of one of my opponents.

When the truth, and the whole truth, is told, the people will then act as the jury, and with their verdict I shall be satisfied.

Boston, Nov. 21. JOHN A. COULTHURST.

CALLS WARNING IN DEATH FALL

Screaming a warning "look out, there!" to the men below as he fell, Edward Smith was thrown to the ground by the collapse of a staging at James E. Kelly's house on Palfrey street, Watertown, to-day and was fatally hurt.

His skull was fractured and he died in a few minutes. The staging was slung from the house gutter, which was too old to bear the strain. Smith was forty-nine years old and lived at No. 29 Mount Auburn street, Watertown.

BIG RALLY FOR COULTHURST

A large audience is assured to-morrow evening at the John A. Coulthurst rally, to be held at Knights of Honor Hall, Washington street, Roslindale. Scores of friends and neighbors have signified their intention of attending.

One of the active men in the movement is James Worth Edward Coughlin.

The following committee has the matter in hand: James Price, John Manning, H. Donovan, William Whall, William Brooks, T. H. Keating, A. H. Keating and T. J. Morton.

The rally will be "a home rally for the home candidate," and will be held under the auspices of the "Home Ward Committee." Neighbors and friends of Mr. Coulthurst will throng the hall and the candidate himself will speak. Among the speakers also will be former Senator John K. Berry.

HUB NO LONGER PURITAN CITY

—James Bryce

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Ambassador Bryce spoke at the banquet of the Society of Mayflower descendants last night, and said that Boston was no longer an American city in its original sense.

"Since the fine of the Pilgrim Fathers," he said, "New England has greatly changed. In the streets of Boston now you can hear all languages spoken. The same is true even in the country in New England, but the change had to come in the due course of development."

Mr. Bryce is the British Ambassador. He wrote "The American Commonwealth."

TROOPS GUARD LISBON IN FEAR OF CIVIL WAR

REPUBLICAN UPRISING AGAINST KING IMMINENT; HUNDREDS FLEE.

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 22.—King Carlos gave orders to-day for the concentration in Lisbon of all regiments on whose loyalty he thinks he can rely. Those in which there is believed to be much disaffection are being sent to the provinces.

A republican uprising against the crown and Premier Franco, who still refuses to call Parliament together, is imminent. The government is prepared to meet force with force. Spies are watching every movement of the republican leaders. Especial precautions are being taken to prevent the issuance of a revolutionary proclamation to the army.

Commercial conditions are added to the difficulty of the political situation. Trade is paralyzed. Many financial institutions have suspended and nearly every foreign bank doing business in Lisbon has refused further transactions with domestic establishments. Several contemplate withdrawing from the country in anticipation of a civil war.

All who are able are emigrating to France and Spain, in anticipation either of mob violence or of unbearable tyranny by the government should the latter prove victorious in the threatened struggle.

Hundreds of persons are arrested daily, many newspapers have been suppressed and the others are forbidden to give anything of the true state of affairs.

Two men were killed and a third fatally injured Sunday by the explosion of an infernal machine in a house in the heart of the city. The house was evidently a revolutionists' headquarters.

The bomb is supposed to have gone off prematurely. News of the accident has just leaked out, so strict is the censorship.

BASE BALL UMPIRE
Cured of Rheumatism by MUNYON'S REMEDY

Read what the famous Philadelphia Base Ball Umpire writes of Munyon's 3X Rheumatism Remedy.

228 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa., November 13, 1907.

"I had unquestionable good success with Munyon's 3X Rheumatism Remedy. Before I had finished one bottle I was cured. You may refer any one to me who suffers with Rheumatism."

Thousands of people from all parts of the country are sending in their grateful thanks for curing them of Rheumatism and other ailments. For all chronic and obstinate cases we strongly recommend our 3X Rheumatism Cure, which has been prepared especially for chronic and obstinate cases. It relieves pain almost from the first dose, and in most cases when 3 doses are taken off or nearly off or have become chronic. It is especially recommended for lame backs, sciatic pains, lumbago, swollen limbs and where there is great inflammation. It is put up in a large bottle and costs only 25 cents.

I will cure every chronic rheumatic to throw away all medicines, all liniments, all plasters and give MUNYON'S 3X RHEUMATISM CURE a trial. No matter what your doctor may say, no matter what you have struggled against, no matter how many doctors you may have tried, no matter how many patent medicines you may be against all advertised remedies, go at once to your druggist and get a bottle of the 3X RHEUMATISM CURE. He will get it for you if he has not some in stock. There are 3 pills in a bottle, and as one only is taken at a time, it is worth $1 a dose. Do not be discouraged if the first dose or three will not drive away all aches and pains, and a cure generally follows before one bottle is used.

Remember, this remedy contains no salicylic acid, no opium, cocaine, morphine or other harmful drug. It is put up under the guarantee of the Pure Food and Drug Act.—MUNYON.

Masterful Women Have Little Charm in the Eyes of Men

By Beatrice Fairfax

It is a well-known fact that woman has a weakness for the masterful man, but the man is yet to be discovered who has any love for the masterful woman.

The moment a woman gets away from her greatest charm, her femininity, she begins to lose her power over man.

If one could be masterful and gentle and lovable, as a man can, at the same time, no one would object to her masterfulness.

But some way or other she cannot be masterful without being dictatorial and brusque at the same time. She wants to boss everything and everybody.

As for man, the thing he loves most in woman is her gentleness.

The reign of the namby-pamby woman is over, but the reign of the gentle woman will never be over as long as man and woman exist.

The fact that a woman is gentle does not necessarily imply that she is a poor, weak thing, of no individuality of her own.

It simply means that she is a sweet, lovable woman who is content to be a woman.

Woman's True Place

WOMAN has her place in the world, and she is filling it nobly. She is branching out in every line of business that her physical strength fits her to cope with.

Everywhere we go we meet bright young business women who are supporting themselves and saving money as well.

Most of them belong to a union of some kind, and in that way they stand by one another and advance the working woman's cause.

But a girl need not be masterful in order to earn her own living. The more modest and gentle she is in manner the greater her chance of advancement.

Of course, she must be capable, but she must not be bossy.

The average man is afraid of the bossy woman.

If he looks far enough ahead, he knows that after marriage the husband of the bossy woman will tremble if he is late for dinner, and that a stop ashes on the carpet will be a crime.

He sees himself acting a meek, secondary part in his own home, and his spirit revolts, for man dearly loves to be king in his own kingdom.

Not the Best Mother

THE masterful woman does not make the best mother. She has "theories." She comforts herself with the thought that these "theories" are all for the child's good, but as a rule they are simply to gratify her own love of organization.

Every good mother knows that gentleness and firmness are necessary in bringing up a child properly, but she also knows that the method must be suited to the child's temperament and the occasion.

I have seen some very pathetic cases of children who were drained on the theories of a strong-minded mother.

Don't think, dear girls, that I want you to be of the milk-and-water type, for I do not.

I want you to be splendid, womanly women, firm in your ideas of right and wrong, but not filled with the thought that your ways are the only ways, not trying to force every one to your ways of thinking and doing.

Woman can be a power and accomplish much by gentleness and womanliness, but she can never amount to anything by using aggressive tactics and trying to boss the universe.

DAME FASHION'S FIAT FOR WINTER DEFIES THE PROTESTS OF BIRD LOVERS AND Feather Hats Hold Full Sway

These three photographs of the smartest Paris creations in Winter millinery give an idea of the extreme use of feathers and plumes in the most fashionable hats.

HERE are three of the newest of Winter hats direct from Paris, and they are all of the type upon which Dame Fashion has set her seal of approval for the coming months.

First of all, woman's millinery this season must be of generous proportions. Secondly, to be in style, it must be adorned with feathers in abundance no less generous than the size of the hat.

Although these hats are all of the most generous proportions, they by no means illustrate the extreme type which is being worn by the smart Parisienne. And if Paris is wearing them, it is only a question of weeks before Boston's fashionably dressed women are similarly adorned.

These hats are from three of the most famous of Parisian milliners, Laferriere, who is known the world over for his creations; Rose Vert and Jean Lauvin. The most striking thing about them is that they all follow the same general design, large in shape and with abundant plumage.

Time was when a woman could enter any fashionable millinery store and select from several shapes, any one of which would be in the prevailing fashion. There were extremes for the woman who wanted the extreme and the conservative for the woman who dressed well but quietly.

That idea does not go with the millinery styles of the Fall and Winter of this year. Large hats only are being turned out by the leading fashion houses.

As a result women have risen in protest. Perhaps this is the explanation of why women usually well in fashion are seen on the streets todgay with the hat shapes of a year ago, preferring them to the present style.

Handy Things for Housewives to Know

A GOOD supply of dish towels is a necessity. Health and comfort are promoted by an abundance of extra clothing in the kitchen department. For dish rags pale.

A BLACK leather traveling bag can always be kept in capital condition by mixing one tablespoonful of sweet oil with two tablespoonfuls of milk and rubbing this well into the bag. After it becomes nearly dried it should be polished with a chamois leather.

In Cleaning Rugs

A VERY satisfactory way to clean rugs after they have been hung on the line and beaten is to brush them carefully with a whisk broom dipped in gasoline.

Brush for Pastry

KEEP hanging in the pantry a soft varnish brush for the purpose of brushing bread rolls and pastry with melted butter. This butter, at all times, gives to the rolls the desired crispness of crust, and can in no other way be so evenly applied as by means of the brush.

Dampen Silk for Ironing

IF you desire to iron or press out silk which has become wrinkled, be sure to dampen it with water and roll it up for at least an hour before ironing it. It should be rolled tightly in a towel and well wrapped, so as not to admit the air. Be careful that the heat is not too high, as a very hot iron injures the silk, killing the life of the fiber and making it rotten.

THE TURN OF THE BALANCE

CHAPTER X.

Copyright, 1907, by American Journal-Examiner

THOUGH Elizabeth, as long as Eades and Modderwell were there, had chosen to survive her predicament, and had experienced the pleasure of shocking them by the decision she reached, she found, when they had gone that night, and she was alone in her room, that it was no decision at all.

The situation presented itself in all seriousness, and she found that she must deal with it, not in any whimsical spirit, but in sober earnestness. She found it to be a real problem, incapable of solution from those artificialities which were all that made it a problem.

She had found it easy and simple enough, and even proper and respectable, to visit the poor in their homes, but when she contemplated visiting them in the prisons which seemed made for them alone, and were too often as much better than their hosues, obstacles at once arose. As she more accurately imagined these obstacles they became formidable. She sat by the table in her room, under the reading-lamp that stood among the books she kept beside her, and determined to think it out.

She made elaborate preparations, deciding to marshal all the arguments and then make deductions and comparisons, and finally, in the most methodical manner, determine what to do.

But she never got beyond the preparations; her mind worked, after all, intuitively, she felt rather than thought; she imagined herself in the morning going to the police station, confronting the officers, duties keep me from performing my real duties—which, just now, seem to me to go and see poor little Gusta."

Mrs. Ward was more disturbed now that her daughter saw her duty, than she had been a moment before, when she had declared she could not see it.

"I do wish you could be like other girls," she said, speaking her thought as her habit was.

"I am," said Elizabeth, "am I not?"

"Well," Mrs. Ward qualified.

"In all except one thing."

Anxious

Mrs. Ward looked her question.

"I'm not getting married very fast."

"No," said Mrs. Ward.

Elizabeth laughed for the first time that morning.

"You dear little mother, I really believe you're anxious to get rid of me!"

"Why, Elizabeth!" said Mrs. Ward, lifting her eyes and then lowering them suddenly, in her reproach. "How can you say such a thing!"

"But never mind," Elizabeth went on: "I'm not one ever marries me I shan't mind very much;

I shall buy a squirrel in a cage and a little rabbit with it.

I shall have a cottage in a wood, and a pony all my own.

And a little lamb quite clean and tame that I can take to town.

And when I'm getting really old—at twenty-eight I shall buy a little cotton girl and make her up late.

She smiled as she finished her quotation, and then suddenly sobered as she said:

"I'm twenty-seven already!"

"Who wrote that?" asked Mrs. Ward.

"Alma Tadema."

"Oh, I thought Mr. Marriott might have done it. It's certainly very silly."

Nora had brought her breakfast, and the action recalled Gusta to Elizabeth.

"What did you say—about my going to the prison?"

"I said," Mrs. Ward began gladly, "that, of course, we all felt very sorry for Gusta, but that you couldn't go there. He said it would be absurd; that you don't understand." Mrs. Ward was silent for a moment, knowing how much greater the father's influence was than her own. She was glad that Elizabeth seemed altogether docile and tractable this morning.

"There's a good girl now," Mrs. Ward added in the hope of pressing her advantage home.

Worldly Woman's Maxims

BY DOROTHY DIX

If men would pay their wives more attentions they would have to pay fewer bills. Many a woman tries to smother the ache in her heart by piling real lace over it.

No woman is so circumspect as she who has something to hide.

A man is as old as his arteries. A woman is as old as her attitudes.

There are women who have so many children it leaves them no time in which to be a mother.

The servant question will never be settled until a perfect woman is born who has every virtue under the sun and is willing to work for fifteen dollars a month.

The real test of self-abnegating friendship between woman is when one woman refrains from telling another that her new hat is ten years too young for her.

Pity opens the gates to the heart. Envy bolts and bars them. This is why the poor have more friends than the rich.

Love is the only thing that is eternal. We remember the foolish fond words of affection that some one said to us long after we have forgotten the wise advice of the sage or the vituperation of our enemies.

A woman can no more help probing into a secret that it will break her heart to know than she can help pressing her tongue against a sore tooth.

Most men expect to be passed into heaven on their wives' church letters.

When children take prizes at school, their father boasts in his friends about how he is bringing up his boys and girls. When they break the neighbors' windows, he makes sarcastic remarks about how their mother is raising them.

The groundless coffee pot furnish the grounds for many a divorce.

Advice to Anxious Sweethearts

By Beatrice Fairfax

VERY RUDE TREATMENT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been keeping company with a young man for the past three years, and he has always treated me nicely, but lately he has been very cold with me. I was out with him one evening, and when bidding me good night he asked me if I would like to go out with him the next night, which was Wednesday, and I consented. I waited that evening for him till 9 o'clock, and he never showed up. I would accept some excuse from him, but he told my friend that he had been to an affair that evening, thinking she knew nothing about it.

TROUBLED.

I THINK he treated you very rudely, and if I were you I would have nothing more to do with him unless he offered a very satisfactory apology.

RUNNING A RISK

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man twenty-four years of age and keeping company with a young lady who is willing to help me establish a business if I should get engaged to her. I intend getting married shortly. Although I think I can make a success of a store with the experience that I have, still I dislike to accept a favor, as I am of a very independent nature and would rather start small, and then start my own capital and this looks to be a long way off.

L. B.

I THINK that you would be running a great risk in accepting a woman's savings to start a business. If you were married to her you would be in a different position, supposing you lost her money and then you found out that you did not care for each other. I think what I would do would be in. I think it is better to make your own fortune without help from your fiancee.

CLERKS ERR IN WHITNEY VOTE

The Governor's Council returned the Whitney vote to-day to 106 ten clerks, who had sent in the Whitney vote under one designation instead of under the three designations of Democrat, Independent Democrat and Independent Citizens. The three designations must be indicated by the clerks before the Council can reckon the votes in the canvass it is making of the state ticket balloting.

Appetite—None

The Woeful Reflections of a Withered Dyspeptic.

No substitute for good nature has yet been found. Smiles take root in the stomach. Without good digestion there never can be very much sunshine, for the very simple reason that the stomach and the brain are twins, and what affects one invariably affects the other. The adage that the best road to a person's heart is via the stomach, still holds good.

Gorged grub and happy pie always breed gloom and sleepless nights.

They also breed dyspepsia—quick dyspepsia, and dyspepsia shows itself

Is This You?

in a variety of ways—belching, burning sensation, an empty feeling in the stomach, bloating after eating, brash, aversion to food, fermentation, or downright indigestion.

There are few diseases which create such misery—long drawn out misery—as dyspepsia. It pursues you before meals, after meals, and between meals; you take it to bed with you; it is with you at the theatre and at your desk.

What is the only way to get rid of it?

You don't have to stop eating, you don't have to diet. Just take something that will do the work of the stomach and let the stomach take a rest.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the most wonderful little tablets on earth for this very thing.

In plain arithmetic, 1 of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets—1 good strong stomach for 1 time—1 good hearty meal. One ingredient of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest perfectly 3,000 grains of food in just the same way that a strong, robust, healthy stomach would do it.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets enrich and increase the gastric juice in your stomach, and that is mostly what you need—more and better gastric juice. And it gives the stomach a rest, a good long rest. In the meantime it cures the dyspepsia, and all other stomach troubles.

Just a few of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will prove to you what these little cherubs of health and happiness can do.

GARGAN IN IRELAND HOME RULE APPEAL

True Sons of Erin Honor the Memory of Manchester Martyrs at Big Meeting.

"What is the reason that Ireland is not capable of governing itself?" was one of the questions asked last night at the public memorial observance of the death of the Manchester martyrs, Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, in the American House, by the Hon. Thomas J. Gargan, who delivered the memorial address.

The observances were under the auspices of the United Irish League and the speaker of the evening took advantage of the opportunity to make the occasion have practical bearing on local political conditions in Boston.

In reviewing the question as to why Irishmen were regarded as the lacqueys of self-government as a nation, the honorable speaker said:

"I am sorry to say that we have some bad examples of this kind in this country.

No Bribe Takers in Old Days.

"The old Irishmen to my father's time were honest, they could no more have been bribed than the angel Gabriel. I wish that I could say as much of the present generation of politicians in this country."

Referring to the antiquity of the Irish race he said that Hieratic scholars had found in the British Museum the will of an Irish King dated 200 years before Christ, and that it had been proved by old records that the Irish were an older race than the so-called Assyrian.

"The Germans," he said, "who are by far the greatest people in the world, have taken the blue ribbon of the sea away from England with the North German Lloyds and other lines."

Reverting to the subject of the martyrs the speaker likened them to as great and brave heroes as any that had ever fallen upon any battlefield for their country's sake.

Oldest and Grandest Nation in World

"It is always sweet to the brave to die for one's country," he said, "and Irishmen are always ready to die for Erin in any way that needs bravery and devotion.

"Allen, Larkin and O'Brien may have been foolhardy, rash, if you please, but was there ever any great cause that did not need rash men. The Irish revolution was but the prototype of the American Revolution. Did J. Tinmins, M. D., president of the Central Branch, make a brief address. "The Hole" Choir was sung by Walter Reed. Other speakers and musical numbers made the evening an impressive and agreeable one.

"If I were to advise a nation of 4,000,000 without an army to rise against one of 40,000,000 I would be fit for a lunatic asylum. The only way is by compelling attention of the public to existing conditions by constitutional agitation."

The speaker said that his observation had brought him that the Irish people of New England were far superior to those elsewhere in the country.

"A French traveler said the Irish people were the only ones that impressed themselves upon the life of the nation," went on the speaker, "and I say that if it had not been for the Irish that there would never have been any revolution. Certainly they help build the country.

Well Fit for Self Government.

"Somebody said during the Spanish war that they hoped that all the Irish would not go to war, for if they did there would be none left to govern the cities. This was not a very great compliment to the native element, I'll admit.

"The only fear that the Irish people are fit to govern themselves, it only remains for us to educate them."

John O'Callaghan, secretary of the league, read the following telegram from Captain Edward O'Meagher Condon, who was sentenced to death with Allen, Larkin and O'Brien. Captain Condon, however, was an American citizen, and through the intervention of the United States Government his sentence was first respited and after many years' imprisonment pardoned, when he returned to America.

He has been for many years employed as inspector in the supervising architect's office of the United States Treasury, and is at present in charge of the work of the department at Dallas, Texas. His message was as follows:

Slainte Leibh Go Bragh.

John O'Callaghan, Boston:

Unite in spirit with Boston Irish, honoring memory my martyred comrades, Allen, Larkin, O'Brien, Exiled Irish League of Dallas join in fraternal salutations to orator, audience and yourself. Slainte leibh go bragh (Health to you forever).

EDWARD O'MEAGHER CONDON.

Miss Gertrude Flynn and Sarah Fanning also played "Come Back to Erin" on the piano. Prof. J. Timmins, M. D., president of the Central Branch, made a brief address. "The Hole" Choir was sung by Walter Reed. Other speakers and musical numbers made the evening an impressive and agreeable one.

NO RELIEF TO MARKET IN PLAN OF CORTELYOU

—HORACE WHITE

Noted Financial Authority Says 3 Per Cent. Campaign Will Not Help.

DOUBTS LOAN BY FRANCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Horace White, leading economist and financial authority, when asked if in his opinion, Secretary Cortelyou's 2 per cent. certificates would relieve the money market said:

"The certificates can no more be used as bank reserves than merchants' promissory notes. Bank reserves must consist of lawful money. Those certificates are not money of any kind. Let it once be understood that the bank reserves are to consist in whole or part of things which are not money and there will be an immediate run on the Clearing House banks like that which we saw a week or so ago on the two trust companies. Fortunately, no such thing has been contemplated for an instant."

"I am not in the habit of making predictions, but I should be very much surprised if the Bank of France should supply a security whose legality is questioned. It is very plain that the authority to issue these certificates is limited by the words 'public expenditures.' They are not to be loaned on the whim or caprice of any Secretary.

"When it comes to stretching the law anything may happen. We may safely assume that the government will repay any money that it has borrowed even though a mistake was made in the interpretation of the law, but it is not likely that foreigners will take any risks of that kind."

NEWPORT MAYOR IS SURE OF RE-ELECTION

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 22.—The time for filing nomination papers for the city election, to be held on the first Tuesday in December, closed last night, with the result that 146 nominations papers for the offices of mayor, aldermen, councilmen and school committee members were in the hands of City Clerk Parsons, when the time for closing came.

Mayor Clarke feels assured of his re-election for he is the only nominee for the office, no one in the city wishing to oppose him.

SAYS POISON CASE VICTIM WAS SUICIDE

Sister Declares Mrs. Drover, Who Died Strangely, Twice Tried to End Life.

The mystery which surrounds the poisoning of Mrs. Marla Drover of No. 25 Chelsea street, East Boston, who is still in a serious condition at the Relief Station, and for which Mike Develle, a Italian, forty-two years of age, of No. 5 Chelsea place, East Boston, has been placed under arrest, is to-day increased by the statement of a sister of the woman that Mrs. Drover has twice before attempted to commit suicide.

Mrs. Lizzie Anderson of No. 13 Paris court, East Boston, the sister, discards the idea that Develle had anything to do with Mrs. Drover's being taken so violently ill, or that he had drugged her wine.

"My sister has twice before tried suicide," Mrs. Anderson says.

In their investigation the police have found no trace of poison in the wine glass from which it is claimed Mrs. Drover drank the wine that made her sick, but other glasses are in Dr. Taylor's hands for analysis.

According to the sister, Mrs. Drover tried to kill herself by jumping from an East Boston ferryboat some years ago, and three years ago when she swallowed four grains of mercury after she had had a quarrel with her husband.

The police claim that Develle, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Drover were at the latter's home on Wednesday afternoon, and that they drank some wine. Mrs. Drover was soon taken sick and Dr. Daniel J. O'Shea called in to treat her. She was then removed to the hospital and then notified the police. Develle denies all knowledge of the affair.

ROCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Florence Holmes Elliott of Wilmington, Arthur Elliott, a bicycle dealer of this town, who disappeared from her home here some days ago and for whom search was made by hundreds of her neighbors, was to-day found with her little one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stillman Thompson in West Farmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson adopted Mrs. Elliott when she was a little girl. When she married Elliott she was but fourteen years of age, while the man was thirty-four.

Local Forecast for Boston and Vicinity—Friday rain, followed by clearing, colder; Saturday fair, fresh southwest winds.

Both the Yale and Harvard football teams are ready for their annual struggle in the Stadium to-morrow.

The Elis are quartered at an Auburndale hotel and are reported to be in fine form and jovial spirits.

The Crimson's headquarters are at the Norfolk House Club, in Roxbury.

Already the local hotels are filled with gridiron enthusiasts and the big rush is expected to-day. New Yorkers will be quartered at the Touraine, and the Lenox. Somerset, Vendome, Copley Square, Young, Adams and Parker Houses will be taxed to their utmost.

A small delegation of New Haven men arrived here shortly after 10 o'clock and began to celebrate their anticipated victory with unusual emphasis. They had a lot of fun on Boylston and Tremont streets up to midnight, when the rain finally drove them indoors.

Back For Lectures To-day.

The Harvard players come back to Cambridge to attend their lectures late morning, but will return to the Hunt Club this afternoon in Automobiles.

The following members of the football squad went to Medfield: Apollonio, Harney, Breunan, Rand, Brides, Bomar, Cutting, Fish, Grant, Haddon, Hoar, Houston, Jerkes, Lockwood, Macdonald, Newhall, Parker, M. C. Peirce, W. Peirce, Rand, Starr, Wendell, Coaches Crane and Campbell, Trainer Donovan, Manager Daniher and Assistant Manager Eggleston.

To-day, although a short signal drill may be ordered, for the most part the men will take it easy in preparation for Some of the players took their golf clubs out to Medfield with them and will have light exercise on the links this afternoon.

Coach Crane gave them a simple signal drill yesterday. There was plenty of life, and the plays started like a flash. The work was, as it had been in Cambridge, entirely secret, the managers and the substituting acting as a second squad and rented any too loquacious strangers from getting a line on the plays which the Harvard coaches have up their sleeves.

All in all, the Harvard team is in fine shape, except Bird. He is still lame from his muscle bruise, but Trainer Donovan expects to have him in condition by Saturday, so that he can go into the game if he is called upon.

The varsity boys lined up follows in the game, and it is likely to be the line makeup of to-morrow's eleven:

Students Enthusiastic.

No Harvard eleven has ever been better supported by the students than the present one. The Crimson undergraduates have done their best to let the players know they are with them heart and soul.

At the last mass meeting in the Union an hour. After the meeting was over the undergraduates paraded around the town, cheering the team and the coaches and setting off red lights and firecrackers.

There were no speeches, the purpose of the meeting being to learn the songs. All the evening was devoted to practicing them, with the aid of the university band.

FOSTER ROCKWELL, OLD YALE COACH, COMPARES TEAMS

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 22.—Foster Rockwell, Yale's field coach last season and one of the Blue's best quarters, has signed interview in the Yale Daily News in which he sizes up the Yale and Harvard teams. Rockwell has seen Harvard play a number of times and of late has been coaching Yale. He says:

"In the first part of the season Harvard spent their time in trying out new plays—onside kicks, forward passes, etc.—and up to the middle of the year had no plays that were sure ground-gainers. They could and did win against weaker teams by means of brilliant if risky plays.

"Also they had not developed a good defence against their opponents' forward passes. As a result, when they played a really strong team such as Carlisle, they were beaten.

"However, they had very hard luck in that game, being handicapped severely by the loss of their best quarterback.

"Again, in the Dartmouth game they did not have their full strength, since several good men were out of the lineup.

"So I think that no fair opinion should be founded on the results of these games, which at first glance seem so much against Harvard's winning next Saturday.

"The line has all the men back who played against Yale last Fall, with the exception of Osborn. That this line outplayed Yale in the first half of the game last November shows that its strength is not to be underestimated.

"The backs are not equal to the Princeton ones in drive, but, coupled individually with the Yale trio, excel them.

"The quarter although a fast and heady player, is not Jones' equal.

"So I think that on the whole the Harvard backfield does not equal Yale's in team work and drive.

"Harvard's defence is weaker than their offence, although the ends have been improving steadily. If Harvard can withstand Yale's attack she will have a fair chance to win.

"The style of play used by Yale will be practically the same as in the Princeton game, while Harvard will resort mainly to the onside kick and forward passes of the new game.

"The Harvard team, as a whole, follows the ball with a certainty and persistency unequalled by the other college eleven. Since the faults brought to light in the two defeats are being rapidly remedied, and since the game against Yale will be one under the arc lights, which always comes with them uncertainty, no certain forecast can be made as to the outcome of the game on Saturday."

Special to the Boston American.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Nov. 22.—Packy McFarland defeated Kid Herman, the Chicago townsman, in a fifteen-round battle before the biggest crowd that ever saw a battle in Iowa in the Coliseum.

This, too, despite the explicit orders of Governor Cummins that no exhibition of any sort be allowed to take place. But there was no decision given by Referee Malachi Hogan, the wishes of the Chief Executive of the Corn State being observed to the letter.

No decision was necessary. Only gameness of a marked degree and good condition saved Herman from a complete knockout. From the eleventh to the fifteenth rounds Herman was completely at Packy's mercy, and but for his good defence, handled brilliantly with what little strength the Kid had, there would have been a fight with a knockout climax.

"I went as far as they would let me," Packy said later. "The referee's and Governor's orders I would have finished him.

Kulp is captain of the militia company of this city, the organization that was ordered out to stop the battle after Sheriff Eckhardt had told the Governor that an infraction of the law was besieged. This did not satisfy the Governor, and he ordered Captain Kulp to see to it himself.

Kulp's men were on hand, but there, but were not needed. After a long parley the captain agreed to let the bouts go without having any decision rendered.

Packy proved his superiority almost immediately. He was much stronger, and Herman seemed powerless in spite of his cleverness. Generally speaking, Packy made Herman look foolish. Herman's only his gameness and ring generalship to recommend him.

The fighters split up 60 per cent. of the gross receipts which are said to have amounted to $11,000.

BOYLSTONS ARE IN THE FIELD

The Boylston first and second basketball teams desire games with fast teams away from home. Games can be arranged with either or both teams, and managers would do a favor by stating which team they desire to book.

The first team includes George Crook, Tom Giavin, "Bill" Moran, "Bill" Byrnes, Frank Wohlgemuth, John Ellis and "Bill" Barlow, with "Bill" Hill as substitute.

The second team is composed of Fred Bradley, Jim Stewart, Jack Dolan, Harold Jamarie, "Thad" Barrow, "Dodo" Linberg, "Nig" Todd, "Dutch" McDonald, "Jack" Canavin, "Dud" Lowe and Frank Fenton are members of the second team. St. Mary's C. C. of Lowell, Fairhaven High, F. B. C. L. A. 20, Aldebaro, Hingham, Cohasset, Maynard and Milton have offered. Address F. W. Johnson, manager, Mattapan, Mass.

BRADLEY DRAWS WITH STEWART

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Fred Bradley of Boston and Jim Stewart went six rounds to a draw at the Longacre A. C. to-night. Bradley was held to send up to the fifth round, when Bradley sent him through the ropes with a terrific left swing to the jaw. Stewart managed to stall to the end of the round, and held his own in the later sessions.

WALTHAM VS. DEDHAM.

Waltham High has arranged a game with Dedham High football team to be played at Central Park, Waltham on to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

STATE AUTOISTS PLANNING FOR NEXT SEASON

BY J. C. KERRISON.

At the annual meeting of the Massachusetts State Automobile Association the old board of officers was re-elected. This board consists of President Elliot C. Lee, Vice-President J. P. Coghlin, Treasurer J. C. Kerrison, Secretary James Forteson. The delegates present at the meeting, in addition to the above officers, were W. H. Chase, Leominster; H. F. Burbeck, Brockton; Z. T. Haynes, Springfield; Lewis R. Speare and Harry W. Knights, Boston. The several standing committees were reappointed by the presiding officer, and things gotten into condition for a season of activity. It now looks as though the legislative committees will have more work to accomplish during the coming season than during any period since its inception, and the retention of the members of that committee can be looked upon as a thorough approbation of its efforts and work of the past.

* * *

The annual dinner of the Worcester Automobile club, held last evening, proved one of the most enjoyable and successful affairs yet held by the members of the heart of the commonwealth. A progressive organization in all that pertains to the sport or pleasure of motoring, the club fairly outdid itself last evening, and several hits were scored on many of the guests among whom were some of the representative motorists of the country.

PROS IN FIVE MILE RACE

To-night at the Park Square Rink will be run the first race of the season on the skating surface in the rink proper. A five-mile professional handicap is the card. The skate races so far this season have been run in the coliseum, and this race will prove a great attraction at the regular price of admission to the rinks. Hamilton, Gendron, Merritt, Williams, MacDougall, Seyler, Hunter, Dr. Russell, Holden, Nefsey are among the entries. MacDonald, a New York flyer, and winner of many races in New York rinks, will, it is hoped appear this evening and show Boston roller skating followers some New York speed.

BIKE TALENT AT INDOOR TRACK

With such an array of champion bike sprinters as Kramer, Root, Fogler, Kreis, Logan and others of prominence and Jimmy Moran racing Nat Butler in a tandem behind the motors the card at the indoor bike track to-morrow night should be full of thrills.

Never was such a collection of pace kings seen together and this fact is due to witness some spectacular racing when such a fine pick of speeders come together.

While the paced race between Butler and Moran is likely to be of the keenest nature, as crowds of friends of both riders will be at the trackside, the sprint events with such stars competing will furnish some captivating sport, which will be exciting, as the men are jealous of each other's speed claims.

HOLY CROSS'S LINEUP.

DARTMOUTH CELEBRATES VICTORY

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 22.—Dartmouth celebrated in fine style the victory of her eleven over Harvard. Clad in nightgowns, nearly 1,000 students marched and cheered until they were hoarse. They sang war songs and shouted again and again for the team. Captain "Johnny" Glaze, Coaches Dr. J. C. O'Connor and James T. Gilman and Trainer Dr. John M. Bowler.

The enthusiastic students marched about the campus and visited the homes of the faculty. President Tucker and Profs. Charles M. Richardson, Frank W. Shortham, T. W. D. Worthen and John K. Lord made exhilarating remarks. Tucker said:

"You used pluck in the game. You used brains in the game. And you celebrated your victory without the co-operation of the police."

The ancient Dartmouth Indian dance was a feature of the evening. At the close a huge bonfire, 50 feet high and surmounted by an old carriage, was lighted. Over 100 gallons of oil had been poured on the fuel and the carriage was filled with green fire. The blaze could be seen for miles.

OWEN MORAN BETS ON SELF TO WIN BOUT

By Boston American Leased Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—The Nell money is piling up at the various sporting headquarters around town and it looks as though English Owen Moran will be quite a long shot before he enters the ring at Dreamland to-night with the native son. Last night it was given out that such as wanted to back Moran could get ten to seven, and plenty of it.

Nell's popularity with the betting men is accounted for in various ways. In the first place the people who like Frankie's chances claim that he is the greatest fighter of his weight and inches the world ever produced, and they are simply guided by Nell's San Francisco record.

Moran professes to be amused at being held so lightly by the local fight fans. He gave a friend a few hundred dollars to place upon him.

YALE BOYS ARE IN FINE FETTLE AT AUBURNDALE

AUBURNDALE, Nov. 22.—In high spirits after a good night's rest, the Yale kickers came downstairs at the Woodland Park Hotel at 8 o'clock this morning.

At 10:20 o'clock the team departed in three barges for secret practice work at the Newton A. C. grounds.

It is not expected that Congdon will be able to play, owing to an injury to his left ankle, which is badly swollen.

Congdon is a star centre rush and also loses the team will mean a great deal.

Hogan, the old tackle, who is one of the best coaches, said this morning: "I will not be surprised at anything that Harvard might do, and I expect them to score."

After the practice work the men returned to the hotel and put in the rest of the afternoon so that they may be in prime condition for the struggle at the Stadium to-morrow.

Head Coach Camp spent the night in Brookline with friends and played golf at the Country Club this morning. He will be with the team at practice this afternoon.

No Election Now.

After the game to-morrow the Yale team will dine at the Westminster Hotel. The subject of the election of a successor to Captain Biglow will not be discussed at the dinner, as the coaches and players wish this matter to hang fire for some days.

The players registered at the Woodland Park Hotel as follows:

P. C. Smith, jr., E. H. Coy, R. B. Burch, H. Jones, "Ted" Jones, Y. Dinan, W. H. Philbin, H. Bingham, A. E. Brides, L. Foster, C. Alcott, Robert Dunbar, C. Cooney, W. T. Tyler, J. Van Dyke Paige, F. Wheaton, W. Goebel, Fred Murphy, R. Bellamy, L. H. Bigelow, J. C. Thurston, J. Hagan, G. B. Berger, J. Pigott, W. Bomar, E. A. G. Wylie, E. Congdon, M. L. Mitchell, A. A. Biddle and L. Parks.

Another squad will arrive this morning, composed mostly of men who have worked on the field to assist in the practice line-up. These hopefuls are to be rewarded for their efforts by having places assigned on the side lines.

Walter Camp Here.

Head Coach Knox did not accompany the team, but will arrive this morning. Important engagements connected with the details of the game prevented Knox from accompanying his charges. Walter Camp arrived late in the evening, but was not conspicuous about the hotel.

A large squad of coaches came with the team, and more are expected on the early trains to-day. Carl Flanders, John Hall, J. C. Rorback, Ralph Kinney, Jim Hogan and "Phil" Smith were among the chief advisers of the Eli lineup.

Men Fit, Mack Says.

Trainer John Mack said that his charges were in fine shape, and the men certainly looked fit for a hard contest. There was not a trace of sluggishness in the whole squad, and although Congdon limped slightly and Paige had not fully recovered from his hard work in the Princeton game, they are not overtrained. Both will be able to stand a lot of gruelling, and have the full confidence of the coaches when they start the game. If it is very probable, however, that Foster, who substituted for Paige in the Princeton game, will go in against Harvard before the finish, and Dunbar may get a chance to play centre, relieving Congdon in that position.

Captain Biglow said: "Every player has taken on weight and all Saturday and is in shape for a good, hard game. I do not care to discuss the score."

SHERIFF STOPS 'PRELIM' BOUT AT DOVER

DOVER, N. H., Nov. 22.—Jimmy Briggs outpointed Kid Freeman of South Boston in a six-round bout. The first three rounds were evenly matched, but in the last three Briggs had the advantage.

The first bout on the card was Kid Vlette and Young Cassidy, both of Boston. They were evenly matched, the bout being only enlivened by the advantage in six rounds. Kid Sullivan and Young Dwyer fought Young Burns of Lynn. Young Ryan of Boston was referee and was not allowed to fight, so Sullivan fought Burns. Sullivan hit Burns in the stomach and put him to the bed and the sheriff jumped in and stopped them in the third round, claiming it was a foul.

MARLBOROS LOST MONEY.

MARLBORO, Nov. 22.—Although the largest crowds in years attended the ball games of the Marlboro Baseball Association this season, the association lost heavily, as in previous years the gate money with smaller crowds. The high prices paid to the players is assigned as the cause.

EAST BOSTON VS. FALL RIVER.

The East Boston Catholic Literary Association will play the return game of the season to-morrow night, meeting the strong Fall River A. A. team. The Holy Rood C. L. A. second five will meet the strong Notre Dame team from South Boston.

FOSTER ROCKWELL, OLD YALE COACH, COMPARES TEAMS

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 22.—Foster Rockwell, Yale's field coach last season and one of the Blue's best quarters, has signed interview in the Yale Daily News in which he sizes up the Yale and Harvard teams. Rockwell has seen Harvard play a number of times and of late has been coaching Yale. He says:

"In the first part of the season Harvard spent their time in trying out new plays—onside kicks, forward passes, etc.—and up to the middle of the year had no plays that were sure ground-gainers. They could and did win against weaker teams by means of brilliant if risky plays.

"Also they had not developed a good defence against their opponents' forward passes. As a result, when they played a really strong team such as Carlisle, they were beaten.

"However, they had very hard luck in that game, being handicapped severely by the loss of their best quarterback.

"Again, in the Dartmouth game they did not have their full strength, since several good men were out of the lineup.

"So I think that no fair opinion should be founded on the results of these games, which at first glance seem so much against Harvard's winning next Saturday.

"The line has all the men back who played against Yale last Fall, with the exception of Osborn. That this line outplayed Yale in the first half of the game last November shows that its strength is not to be underestimated.

"The backs are not equal to the Princeton ones in drive, but, coupled individually with the Yale trio, excel them.

"The quarter although a fast and heady player, is not Jones' equal.

"So I think that on the whole the Harvard backfield does not equal Yale's in team work and drive.

"Harvard's defence is weaker than their offence, although the ends have been improving steadily. If Harvard can withstand Yale's attack she will have a fair chance to win.

"The style of play used by Yale will be practically the same as in the Princeton game, while Harvard will resort mainly to the onside kick and forward passes of the new game.

"The Harvard team, as a whole, follows the ball with a certainty and persistency unequalled by the other college elevens. Since the faults brought to light in the two defeats are being rapidly remedied, and since the game against Yale will be one under the arc lights, which always comes with them uncertainty, no certain forecast can be made as to the outcome of the game on Saturday."

PAPKE READY TO FACE TWO MEN IN THE RING

To-night the Winnisimmet Athletic Club in Chelsea will be taxed to the limit, for the two matches that Bill Papke, the Western boxer, is to engage in have aroused the fans generally to a pitch of excitement that has not been visible before for years. Men who had apparently lost all interest in the game have exhibited signs of life since the Western man was signed to show here. This is the first time in the history of boxing in this vicinity that one man faces two in the star event of the night, and the members of the club all want to take advantage of the innovation.

The men are all in good shape, and each is eager for the order to enter the ring. Hughes and Jeanette are both well below the required weight and each will reel up to-night.

The Portland boy arrived in town yesterday with 6000 friends, who declare that he will surely outpoint the Western wonder in the short distance he has to travel with him.

The battle for supremacy between Spider McKinnon of Roxbury and Charlie Williams of Gloucester for the heavyweight championship of New England will be an interesting spectacle. The other preliminary between Gus Ross and Eddie Hogan will settle the war that has been waged several times by the rival clubmates.

HANOVER BOYS TO SEE GAME.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 22.—The Dartmouth football players who took part in the Harvard game have been invited to attend the Harvard-Yale game by the Dartmouth Athletic Association. Twenty men will be taken on the trip.

SCHOENFUSS WON SHOT PUT.

Bill Schoenfuss, the former Harvard weight man, won the shot put in the eighth annual handicap meet for members of the Boston Y. M. C. A. Schoenfuss won the 12-pound shot put quite handily with a put of 47 feet 9½ inches.

EASY FOR FREDDY WELCH.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Freddy Welch of England proved too clever in the ring-up at the Broadway A. C. Welch was after Kelly all the time and landed almost at will upon his opponent.

Try to Earn Your Thanksgiving

Starting to Acquire a Single Good Habit Will Be Enough

In another week a friendly government will make a holiday in which we may be thankful for our blessings.

Most of us have something to be thankful for—usually something beyond our deserts.

Perhaps, on Thanksgiving Day, we shall try to point out some of the reasons for gratitude to a kindly Providence.

To-day we shall talk briefly about one way to insure abundant cause for thanksgiving.

We all travel the little journey from swaddling clothes to the cemetery attended by a large company of habits, which pilot us, wisely or unwisely, according to their characters.

The bad habits need no invitation to march in the procession.

The good habits must be coaxed and cajoled to join our company.

They cannot be recruited in a day or in a week, but after a good while spent in sincere effort to secure their services they CAN be won over, and thereafter made to do service, for which we may be truly thankful.

In the six days between now and the day named in the President's proclamation we can BEGIN to enlist a good habit.

It may be the habit of reading, which has transformed many a dull, unthinking man into a useful, intellectual citizen.

It may be the habit of industry, harder to secure than any other, but more immediately serviceable financially.

The habit of thought will follow either of the others into our presence. We can neither read much nor work much without thinking a little.

If you choose the habit of reading, select a good book, and read it slowly.

Think about its meaning. If it is fiction, study its characters; learn the lesson that the author, consciously or unconsciously, has put into it.

Remember that the best of all men who write is in their books.

Shakespeare was a pleasant, gentle personality, but had he never written he would have been forgotten in a very few years after his death.

Herbert Spencer put the deep, careful thought of a long and tremendously valuable life into his books.

Dickens and Thackeray and Robert Louis Stevenson and, in America, Hawthorne and Washington Irving wrote their best thoughts in their books.

It makes little difference which of these you choose, or if you choose none of them, so long as you determine to read the best literature, and to read it with enough interest to make reading a habit.

In seven days that habit will be started. You will discover a new pleasure in life, a new interest in the men who have made civilization, and in civilization itself.

And for the beginning of that one habit, though you feel that you have little else to be thankful for, you will have a reason for gratitude that will be sufficient for one Thanksgiving Day.

If you prefer to put industry ahead of knowledge, you can begin TO-DAY to make it a habit.

Stop putting duties off till the last minute. Try to do a little more than you are paid for, instead of considerably less.

Finish to-day the thing you have begun, if possible. If that is not to be done, see how much more progress you can make on it than you did yesterday.

Spend the hour you believed necessary to recreation at noon thinking about what you are going to do in the afternoon.

Make to-morrow's work better than to-day's. Make next Friday's work VERY MUCH better.

Industry has been made a habit with all successful men, whether they were geniuses or not.

Some are born with it, but they are few. None is so brilliant or so gifted that he can accomplish anything important without it.

If you have facility, which is the knack of doing things with less effort than the average man, you are especially in need of industry.

Facility induces a man to slight his work, to put little thought into it, to get through it as quickly and with as little friction as possible.

And most of those who are born with facility become idlers and procrastinators, and finally FAILURES, because they have relied on an inherited aptitude to do what only honest effort can do.

The gifts of the Creator to His Children on the earth are so many and so varied that few need to look far for reasons for reverent Thanksgiving, not only once a year, but all the time.

But as humanity is first of all vain, we extract more satisfaction from blessings in the bestowal of which we feel that we have had at least a little part.

An inherited fortune, recovery from illness, a good dinner, a loving, helpful wife are things which most often come to us through no merit of our own.

But a good habit cannot be added to our blessings without effort on our part.

Therefore, if we do no more than start to acquire one on the day of national thanksgiving, we can feel entitled to our share in that holiday with a fairly clear conscience.

Bobbie's Essays

By William F. Kirk

LULLABYES.

When I was putting on my stockings & shooz this morning Gitty reddy to go to skool my Ma sed Well, Bobbie, what do you know to rite about today? Nothing, I sed to Ma. Well, she sed, go & git the milk off the dumb waiter, if the nabors has left any, Ma sed, & then when you cum back I will give you a good subjeck of wich to rite of.

When I caim back from the dumb waiter thare wasent any milk & I told Ma so, Nevver mind, Bobbie, sed my Ma, let the cheep persons wich live in the flat under us grab the milk if they wish, what I wanted to tell you, sed Ma, was a fine subjeck for a essay, it is to be called Lullabyes, sed Ma, & will treet of the songs wich is sung by luving mothers to thare offspring.

Grate, sed Pa, do what yure mother says, Bobbie, follow the teechings of her luving hart, Pa sed, & you will never lite with yure face on the crossing, Pa sed.

Grate, sed the teecher, rite what your Ma says about lullabyes.

Lullabyes is what mothers sings to thare children after they have wound the clock & put out the cat. They are meastly littel songs like this:

Sleep, my littel one, sleep.
Father is out to the lodge.
When he cums hoam I will dodge,
Sleep, my littel one, sleep.

Sleep, my littel one, sleep.
Sandman is coming apace.
Play Sandman crate & Father for place,
Sleep, my littel one, sleep.

Among the grate wimmen wich has sung Lullabyes is Eve, wich sang a Lullabye to Cain, she sung:

Sleep, little Cain, please sleep,
Look yr purs brother is asleep.
You will slug him soon in the lite of the moon
With the leg of the breakfast tabel.

But the nicest Lullabye of all is the ones my Ma sings when Pa doesn't go to the lodge, but is reeding in his library; then Ma feels happy & she sings:

Sleep, littel Bobbie, sleep,
You have got away yure toys,
Father & you are two deer boys,
Sleep, littel Bobbie, sleep.

'A Plague o' Both Your Houses'

Rabbi Charles Fleischer Discusses the City Campaign

"A PLAGUE o' both your houses!" exclaims Mercutio, friend of Romeo, as he falls mortally wounded in his tilt with Tybalt of the Capulets.

This phrase from "Romeo and Juliet" has become classic.

Once more it comes pat as applied to the municipal situation in Boston.

We are assured by high authority, mainly that of professional politicians, that parties are necessary to our political life.

That supposed necessity has raised partisanship so high among the virtues that the big political parties (I shall not call them "great") have become the tyrants rather than the servants of the people.

The free man, the independent voter, has been spoken of with contempt. The "mugwump" of whatever kind, the rebel against either the Republican or the Democratic party, has had to bear almost the stigma of treason.

Therefore, say I, "a plague o' both your houses!"

For the time being, let me grant (though I do not at all believe it) that parties are essential (at best they are a necessary evil only) in the political life of the nation.

Well, then, national politics may demand party organization and even a degree of partisanship.

But where is the call for partisan politics in the choice of State officials or in the conduct of the affairs of our Commonwealth?

It was a splendid exhibition that Massachusetts made in giving so large a vote to Mr. Hisgen, running recently as an independent candidate for Governor.

Even Governor Guild, the successful candidate, doubtless prides himself as choice of the people, and not as the choice of the Republican party.

A similar show of independence in voting kept John B. Moran in office with a majority over both of his opponents.

The votes for Hisgen and Moran were the chorus shouts of a mass of Massachusetts citizens echoing Mercutio's cry: "A plague o' both your houses!"

Now, what I am coming to is this: That, whatever the justification or excuse for politics and partisanship in national or state elections in order to choose men who will represent and foster certain policies, there is neither justification nor excuse for the mixture of politics and municipal concerns.

That is, none but Graft.

In our neighboring city, Providence, they have just held a Municipal League convention, and there Boston was referred to as an example of "inefficiency, corruption and degradation in the public service."

Such is the result of grafting politics upon municipal affairs, whether that is done by Democrats or Republicans.

"A PLAGUE O' BOTH YOUR HOUSES!"

Out in Toledo, sacred as the stamping ground of a man who dared to conduct his business on the basis of the Golden Rule, they now have another independent Mayor. Says Brand Whitlock, worthy successor to "Golden Rule" Jones:

"The first step towards municipal reform—real reform—is the exclusion of national parties from municipal politics."

How about Boston and the present municipal campaign?

The Boston Herald declares editorially: "To most folks who can see over a party fence, it looks like a contest between a machine that is out of power and a machine that is in."

That's just about it. That is the value of the choice between Fitzgerald and his personal machine and Hibbard and a Republican machine.

"A PLAGUE O' BOTH YOUR HOUSES!"

There is a third alternative, of which voters may avail themselves: COULTHURST AND A CITY OF THE PEOPLE RUN BY AND FOR THE PEOPLE.

After that, it remains to take up government of the city by a commission of business experts in direct and continuous touch with the citizens and under the clear light of the fullest publicity.

YEARS ago there was a young woman who had been obliged to leave a depraved and vicious husband and to make her home with her relatives.

She had never known an hour's happiness during her brief and unwise marriage. One day she looked into the eyes of a man, and both knew they had found "an affinity."

The man, too, was married; he, too, was separated from an incompatible wife, while yet supporting her and their child.

But the two agreed that life held so happiness for them apart, so they went away together, and they tried to believe they were very happy, only the man had little money, and what he had he knew belonged to his deserted wife and child at home.

However incompatible had been the wife, yet he knew she was dependent upon him for a livelihood, and his child, too, was perhaps it want because of his determination to possess his affinity and give her every pleasure possible.

That he loved this affinity deeply, and that he believed he owed his first duty to her, is unquestionable, for he argued that life holds no duty higher than that of a man to the woman who has given up the world and defied its conventions for him.

Death Is Welcome

BUT somehow the neglected obligations left behind him preyed upon his mind, and he grew ill, and wandered from place to place, and finally died; and, while his last words to his affinity were words of love, he was very glad to leave his body for the worms to feed upon, for he had grown very tired of it and of its battles with his conscience.

And now the affinity, with her two little children, is left to face the problem of life she has made for herself, and she cries aloud to God and says, "How can I bear it?"

And there is no answer.

God's answers come slowly, but they come in time. The woman's sorrows are in truth great and many. First there is the awful anguish of loss; the man for whom she gave up the world has gone out, away from her sight or touch or hearing. And she knows he was glad to go. Life must have been bitter as gall to her heart.

Then she looks in the faces of two little children, and, when she is not wondering how she can feed and clothe and educate them, she is wondering when the day of nemesis shall dawn that will reveal her story to these children—born out of wedlock.

Sad Memories

AFTER this thought is driven away comes another, the memory of the other child, who was deserted by its father for her sake.

After that comes the recollection of a mother, a father, a sister, all blushing at the mention of her name, all suffering for her misdeeds, the deeds she believed to be essential to her happiness.

Surely it seems to a dispassionate judgment that the pain of parting from her affinity and the refusal to see him or hear from him while life lasted would have been easier to bear than the fourfold pain she suffers to-day.

And what shall this woman, with her broken love life, her bitter pain, her grim fears and her accusing conscience, do with her life? She is not yet thirty-five. She may live to be ninety-five. "I have no future," she says.

But every living being has a future.

First of all, let her find some occupation, and make it a success.

Fill the hours of the day with work. Fill the evenings with study; build new brain cells.

Her Life Restitution

LET her make a resolution that she will eventually pay back to the descendants of the man she loved the capital and interest expended upon her.

It will give her mind an object and will awaken the moral and unselfish side of her nature, a side which has grown stagnant from neglect.

However colossal the undertaking, she can do it if she sets about the task in good earnest.

No one need know the story; she need not confess to any one but herself let them rest between her and God.

But month by month let her place aside some small amount, no matter how small, to be dedicated to this work of restitution.

It may be thirty years before she can pay it all back, but during the thirty years she will be building her own soul and climbing to a higher plane of womanhood.

Out of the bitter harvest of her own sowing she will at least garner some golden moments of self-respect.

"Now Time to Wake Up"

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

In the Boston Post the past few days the question has been asked, "Should Fitzgerald be re-elected?" and people were invited to give their opinions. Now I am of a strong opinion of mind the Boston Post, being in reason-Quincy-Fitzgerald paper (as well as the Traveling) would like to publish only as pleasing things as possible about Fitzgerald. As I am a constant reader and great admirer of your good, clean paper, the BOSTON AMERICAN, if you will kindly publish my opinion in regard to this question, I shall be obliged.

Under no circumstances, under no consideration, should Fitzgerald again be elected Mayor of Boston. Heaven knows we have had plenty of him for the last two years. Among other things that he said against John B. Moran in his paper was that Moran was using the office of District Attorney as if it were his own private property. It seems to me that to a man Fitzgerald has used the city for the last two years.

To my mind, the individual—mentally or otherwise—is not fitted to be Mayor of Boston.

It is now time for all liberty-loving citizens to wake up and vote for the cause of honesty, for which, in every respect, Coulthurst stands—the cause for which Tiberius Gracchus of old was slain, and the cause for which his brother, Caius Gracchus was slain by the Appian Way.

Will the citizens of Boston be asleep to this great cause, for which so many of old have given their lives and made so many sacrifices?
